Expect LOGL shares to soar 400% or greater on this monster deal!

Updated report begins on page 2...

I said it before now I'm saying it again... “Buy LOGL immediately!”

The McShane Letter began publishing in July 1970 and has delivered timely advice to its subscribers for 40 years. Its founder and editor Don McShane was one of the original “gold bugs” and before that was a Wunderkind on Wall Street.

Don McShane, Publisher

Since the mid-1960s Don McShane called every major market move, including the 1969 market top, the beginning and end of the great 1970s bull market, the stock market crash of 1987 and nine years later the Tech Bubble. He hit a bullseye in 1999 by forecasting the S&P index at 1100, which hit an 1108 low that year.

After more than four decades of getting it right there is no questioning that Don has supreme instincts on calling markets. Don called the second great gold boom of the '00s beginning in 2000 when bullion was trading for $264 per ounce. Yet with gold now over $1,500 he says that the Gold Bull is going to keep on charging with no end in sight!

With this Canadian acquisition added to its North Dakota (Bakken Shale) and Kansas holdings, Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL) now sits at the table with industry giants...ConocoPhillips, Marathon, Exxon, to name a few.

LOGL shareholders stand to make fortunes from the emergence of a new North American energy producer!

I first said “Buy LOGL” in May when it was at $1.62. Now it's approaching $3.00 and climbing...

UPDATE: I'm raising my original buy recommendation:

Buy LOGL now at any price to $5.00.

Will Conoco step in now with a $20 bid?

It wouldn't surprise me one bit. ConocoPhillips dominates Alberta oil production. Losing these key assets adjacent to their existing production is more than a slap in the face. Read my analysis provided later in this report.

Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL) now holds key positions in three proven petroleum producing regions...

Dear Opportunity-Seeking Investor,

I love it when a nimble entrepreneur puts the hurt on a juggernaut like ConocoPhillips... especially when it leads to another winning stock pick and enormous profits for my readers!

Right in the middle of Conoco's enormous Alberta, Canada oil and gas holdings...the president of Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL), Marshall Diamond-Goldberg, snapped up a stunning prize, millions of barrels in sweet crude and natural gas in Alberta, Canada.

These are the kind of deals that launch unknown, undervalued companies into stratospheric gains.

Already, investors are taking note. Since I first recommended LOGL in May, share volume has soared four-fold hitting a hefty 67% leap in value.

In my view, it's just getting started. In the next few months, perhaps even weeks, Wall Street is going to discover this stock and when it does, LOGL could quickly soar three to four times today's price, just on the value of this Canadian acquisition alone.

For you, that means a quick 300% to 400% profit opportunity could be right around the corner. That's not all.

In a moment, I'll tell you about another LOGL property in North Dakota's Bakken Shale

ACTION ALERT! BUY NOW!

that could send LOGL into 1,000%+ territory within a year!

First, the Canadian story...

A sweetheart deal...or hostile takeout?

Legend beat everyone to this and by learning about it now, you could make a fortune from the investing rush I see coming soon.

The immediate effect of this deal is an overnight leap in LOGL valuation that makes today's sub-$3.00 price an absolute steal.

By the end of the year, LOGL could be selling at $10.50. Longer term, this has

“With this acquisition, Legend’s total oil and gas production should soar more than 20-fold!

LOGL could be the most undervalued stock in the market today!”

ten-bagger written all over it.

A slower moving market sets up huge profit potential from LOGL's "Value Lag"!

LOGL is not a widely followed stock; there is an inevitable delay an announcement like this has on the share price.

I call it “Value Lag”, a window of opportunity to buy a deeply undervalued stock that promises an inevitable surge in value.

LOGL: It’s a textbook example of how a major acquisition can propel a small company stock to stunning gains.

Since adding these millions of barrels in proven and producing Canadian petroleum to its assets, LOGL could now be worth seven to ten times its current share price.

With these kind of figures...$5,000 in LOGL shares could be worth as much as $50,000 by this time next year!

So, how exactly did a little-known junior like Legend Oil & Gas beat everyone, including Conoco, to such a prize?

LEGEND OIL & GAS (LOGL)

Now those millions will be flowing to LOGL! And the market hasn't even begun to recognize the impact this should have on LOGL shares.

That won't last long, which is why I strongly recommend you consider loading up on LOGL immediately.

Buy Range: Buy now at under $5.00
First Target: $10.50

Here’s how it went down.

On July 12th in a coordinated press release from both companies, International Sovereign Energy (TX: ISR) disclosed its intent to sell its Canadian land and production to Legend Oil & Gas.

Now it’s a done deal. The news is out and now is the time to act.

The sellers had little choice and Legend seized the opportunity!

International Sovereign Energy’s Canadian operations were the company’s cash cow, worth millions to the bottom line.

But judging from their annual report, they had no choice but to let it go. A series of backbreaking setbacks in ISR’s Ecuador and Pakistan operations may have compelled the company to sell off its prized Alberta oil and gas production and reserves.

So who gets the cash cow, friend or foe?

It was an ideal situation for a neighboring big oil company like ConocoPhillips, to move in and snap up bargain assets from a distressed seller. These companies thrive on acquisitions, especially at fire sale prices.

But before Conoco could act, Legend Oil & Gas moved in and bought the whole thing for just pennies on the dollar!

I love it when the little guys get the gold ring!

Did someone have the inside track? You bet they did.

Legend Oil & Gas (OTCBB: LOGL) president,

Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL) stings ConocoPhillips with Canadian acquisition. LOGL now a potential $20 buyout prospect.

I'm not going to tell you that Conoco is about to buyout LOGL for $20 a share, but in my analysis, it's a deal that could be in the works and you should be ready for it.

Conoco dominates Alberta oil and gas production. It has the people, equipment and production on hand, ready to move in and start producing. Move a Conoco rig a few miles down the road and the reserves now owned by Legend could be flowing into Conoco pipelines.

For Conoco, paying a premium price for neighboring reserves makes good financial sense. Where it may cost a new producer tens of millions to get production started, Conoco could make happen at a fraction the cost.

Thus, Legend's reserves could be worth more than double the price to anyone else looking for Alberta oil and gas reserves.

What's more, by taking out LOGL, Conoco also lands on Legend's Bakken Shale property, a site that could be worth billions in yet-to-be-tapped oil reserves.

Marshall Diamond-Goldberg, was on the Board of Directors at ISR! When he saw what was going down, he moved in immediately.

On the same day as the acquisition announcement, Diamond-Goldberg resigned from the ISR Board, then signed a letter of intent to buy all of ISR's Canadian oil and gas reserves, production and assets!

Talk about a sweetheart deal!

After this is all put to bed, LOGL's production and revenues should soar 20-fold!

Can you imagine what this will do to the value of its stock?

The Canadian acquisition instantly adds

National Bank of Canada agrees with a huge multi-million "thumbs up!"

Ranked #1 globally by the World Bank, the Canadian banking system is renown for conservative lending practices. I can think of no better testimony to Legend Oil & Gas legitimacy than this. On August 11, this year, the company announced that Canada's 6th largest bank, the National Bank of Canada committed to an enormous $6 million credit facility to Legend. That's on top of a $4.6 million commitment in private equity funding. With this kind of money being put on the table, Legend has the earmarks of a "made" company. Do not miss this! Buy now!

Just starting out, Alberta adds $56 million in reserves to Legend's asset base. Further exploration and development could run that figure into the billions!

LOGL shares today could be a screaming bargain. You do not want to miss this!

$56 million in reserves...and that's before any new exploration work is undertaken.

In total, the Alberta properties could host billions of barrels just as it has for the properties that surround it. Only time will tell the full extent of the oil and gas to be recovered.

For an up-and-coming junior, Legend Oil & Gas could be sitting on staggering volumes of oil and gas reserves. It seems clear to me that "in the know" investors recognize the potential here.

Let me recap the major points that Legend has made public and why I feel that LOGL is such a tremendous immediate buy.

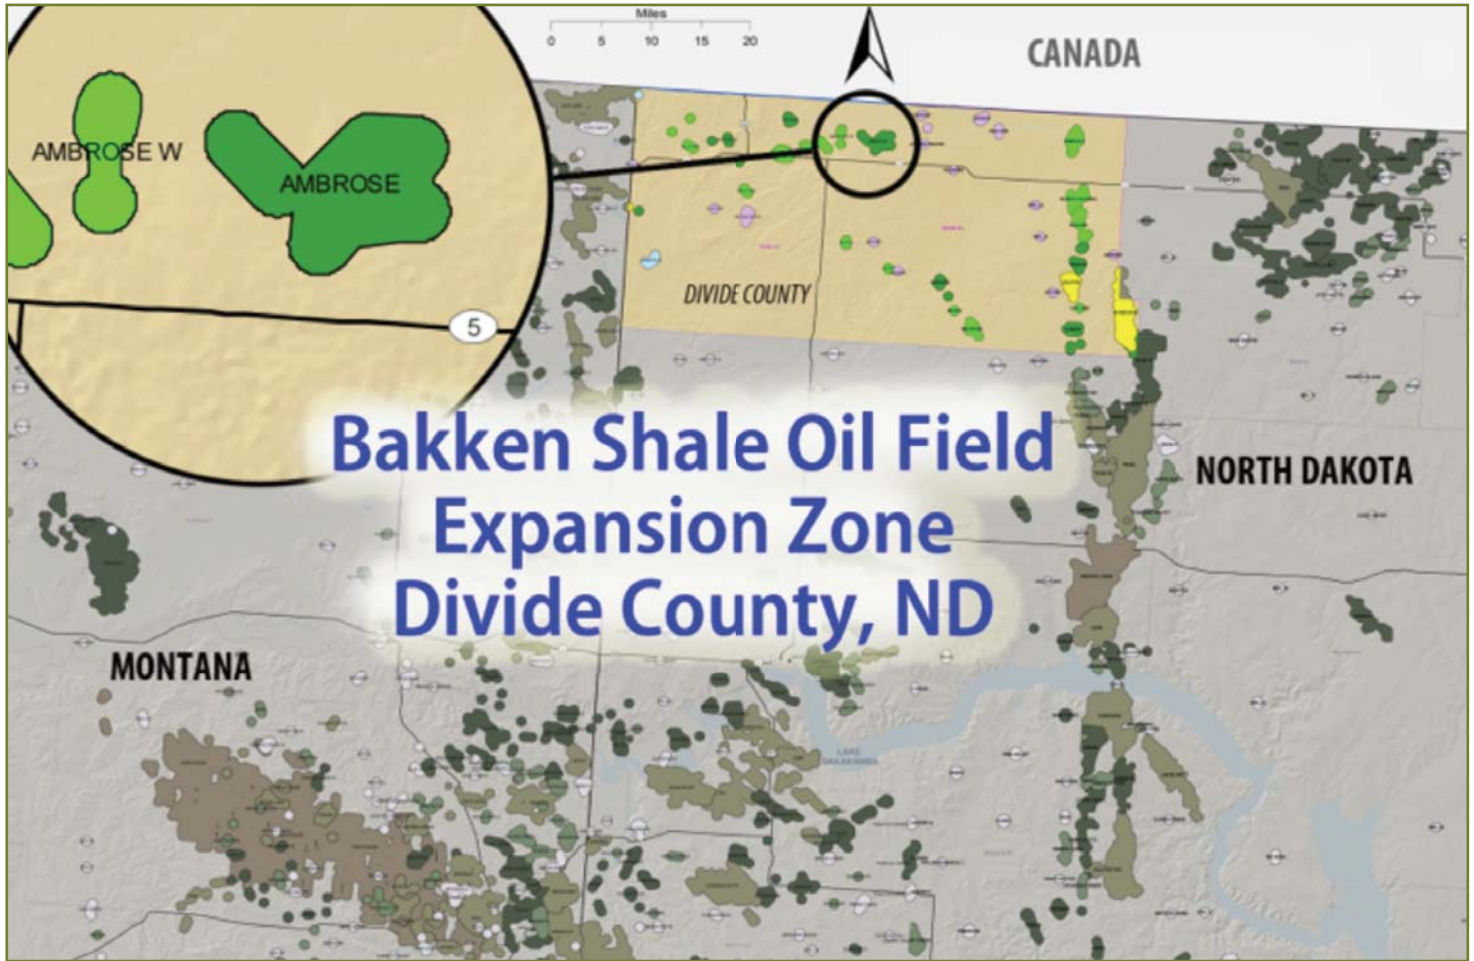

1. The Alberta acquisition can increase Legend's oil and gas production 20-fold. Revenue figures should likewise explode, setting the stage for rapid expansion and development of its other assets. This can throw open the door to many new company-building projects and stunning share gains down the road.

2. Financial commitments for Legend's success have already been made, in particular, a stunning $6 million commitment from the ultra-conservative National Bank of Canada*, plus $4.6 million in private funding.
3. Alberta is home to the third-largest deposit of proven oil reserves in the world, totalling 171.3 billion barrels. While most is tied up in oil sands, Legend will be tapping known reserves of light crude and natural gas.
4. Legend beat ConocoPhillips in Conoco's own back yard. Conoco's massive presence in Alberta makes Legend a strong contender for a future takeover that could eclipse $20 a share.

Clearly, LOGL has all the makings of an easy run to $10.50...but the story doesn't end in Canada.

In my view, bank backing is huge. Rarely do I see this kind of money being committed to a junior oil and gas company, particularly from a bank. You can draw an important conclusion from this; Legend has an unusually solid business plan, sterling assets, and sound management. My strong recommendation is that you take advantage of this opportunity. Call your broker or go online immediately for LOGL.*

Legend's North Dakota prospect could ultimately be valued in billions!

On top of its Alberta properties, Legend Oil & Gas has an established position in North America's famed Bakken Shale*!

*The largest continuous oilfield ever evaluated by the U.S. Geological Survey

Fully developed, the total energy assets that Legend Oil & Gas now owns could one day propel its stock to $60!

Flush with soaring new revenue, Legend Oil & Gas can now move aggressively with its American prize, development of its Bakken Shale play in Divide County, North Dakota.

Divide County sits in the expanding development zone of the massive 503 billion barrel Bakken oil formation.

Though much of the Bakken is already in play, Divide County is just getting started.

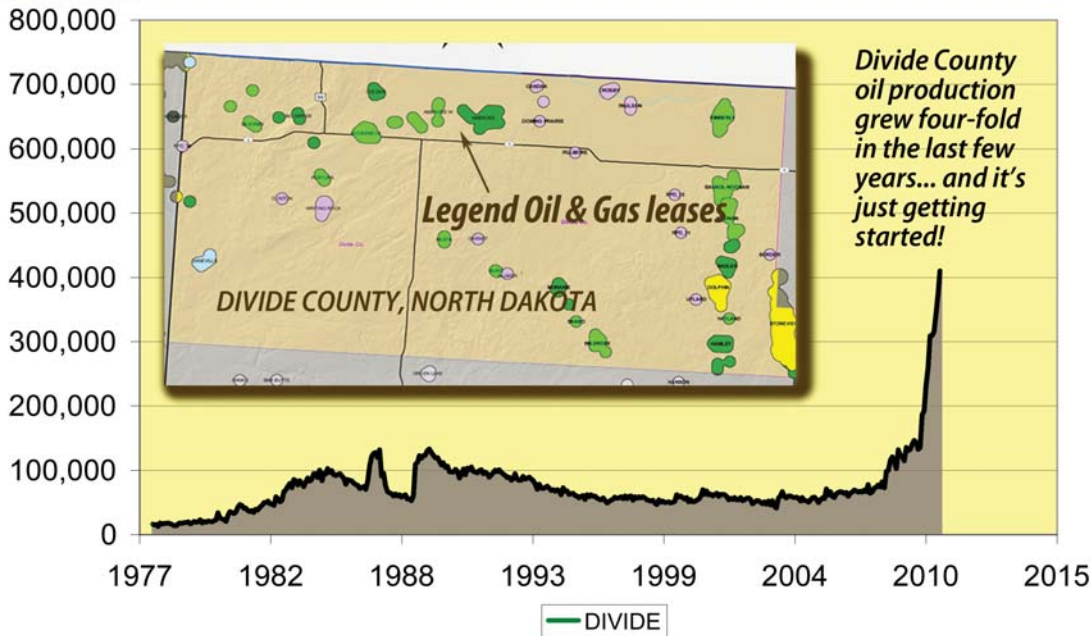

Early entry opportunities are still available and Legend has been moving aggressively to lock up a significant position. It's a move that could make today's shareholders a ton of money.

1. Divide County is reported to host 169 billion barrels of oil in place...
2. Production figures in Divide County

MONTHLY OIL PRODUCTION FOR LOCAL COUNTIES

North Dakota's Divide County, where Legend Oil & Gas set stakes, achieved stunning production results in the last 12 months. Though largely undeveloped at this point, Divide County already holds the fifth highest resource in the state. With further exploration and development, Divide County could rapidly climb to the top spot. This is the ideal location for moving in early on an undiscovered junior like Legend Oil & Gas.

are impressive. One neighboring well to Legend produces $94,500 a day in oil...

3. Divide County oil production is soaring (see chart above). It's a major reason why North Dakota is challenging Texas to be the #1 oil producing state in America...

Here's the best part... for making money on growth stocks, no place pays consistently as big as the Bakken. Get a load of this data:

The Bakken stocks researched for this report have already paid investor profits averaging 1,371%!

You read that right. Stocks of companies discovered working the Bakken have been making fortunes for their investors. I found eleven stocks in this giant American oilfield that already earned investors 285% to 3,741% share price gains!

LOGL could be next on this stellar list... Its foothold in the Bakken is set to make shareholders a fortune!

Oil is one of the surest plays you can make in today's market and the Bakken is the one place to be.

Investors are making a killing in the Bakken and the numbers will blow you away.

Since 2009, the Bakken has produced more triple-digit and quadruple-digit stock buys than any place I've seen in my career.

I charted 18 different stocks from the Bakken and the results were stunning:

- Eleven stocks at least tripled in value...
- Four gained over 1,000%...
- And three of those gained over 2,000%!

Are you ready for these kind of profits?

A ground floor start with Legend Oil & Gas (OTCBB: LOGL) could get you there and become the buy of a lifetime.

Be thankful this report got to you in time to consider LOGL as your next big stock buy. In the short-term, an LOGL payout could triple your money, but don't grab your profits too soon...

...if you hang on for the long haul (no more than two years), you could be cashing out LOGL at 30-times your entry-level investment!

How is this possible? The track record shows clearly that ground floor investors made out like bandits.

The low end in the profit-taking from Bakken stocks was 295% and at the high end... over 3,400%!

Profit like this is a dream come true and with so much of it coming from just one place...at least one stock in the Bakken should be in your portfolio right now!

My top pick for Bakken profits: Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL)

News of the Bakken broke a few years ago putting many great buys in the record books. But don't think that this party is over just yet. There is still opportunity to be found and Legend Oil & Gas shows it.

Move on LOGL today and you could soon be selling for 10-, 20-, even 30-times your money, like many others who cashed in big from previous Bakken oil stock buys.

I would not wait long to make your decision.

The Bakken is too hot of an area for LOGL to continue unnoticed. If you get in first, you could make a bundle off late comers!

The Bakken Shale Oil Field is a 200,000 square mile oil and gas deposit that begins in the northwest regions of North Dakota and spreads further west and north into Montana and Canada.

First discovered in 1951, Bakken oil was thought to be unrecoverable because the oil was locked in tight shale formations.

That all changed just a few years ago. Enhanced oil recovery technology pioneered by natural gas drilling in tight formations like the Barnett Shale was applied to oil drilling in Bakken Shale.

Horizontal drilling, fracking, and other enhanced oil recovery (EOR) techniques. Those techniques are cracking the Bakken

“There may be more oil under Montana and North Dakota ranchland than under all of Alaska!”
— Investors Business Daily

North Dakota oil production is booming!

One huge reservoir on top of another!

The three forks area is located in North Dakota below the upper Bakken Shale zone and could potentially be a completely separate new oil reservoir. This would open up a whole new pay zone in the Bakken Shale, which could add significant oil reserves to the region.

North Dakota Bakken may double production in 10 years

Oil & Gas Financial Journal Government officials in North Dakota said Jan. 2 [2011] that state's oil fields may contain twice the amount of oil previously estimated and that the state's crude oil production will double within the decade. If the estimate is correct, North Dakota, currently the fourth-largest oil-producing state in the US, will jump to second place behind Texas.

At that rate, North Dakota would surpass California and Alaska based on current production levels in those states. North Dakota, which has about 5,300 producing wells, now accounts for about 6% of total US crude oil production. Roughly 2,000 of those wells have been drilled in the last three years, mainly in the Bakken Shale and Three Forks plays.

wide open and the results have been spectacular.

Wells that might once have produced just a few barrels of oil a day can now be stimulated to produce hundreds, even thousands of barrels of oil.

Divide County is already known to host the fifth highest deposit in North Dakota. With further exploration and development, Divide County could challenge the current top producers in Bakken with wells like these:

VONA #1-13H----- 921 Barrels initial production
NIELSEN #1-12H----- 857 Barrels initial production
MUIR #1-7H----- 671 Barrels initial production
Evenson 1-19H----- 1,426 Barrels oil equiv. per day
Tangsrud 2-1H----- 1,023 Barrels oil equiv. per day

There's a wild card in play and it's a big one... a "second" Bakken oilfield that Legend is targeting and it could be worth billions more!

The Bakken formation is a distinct zone of oil that lies a few thousand feet below the surface in the Williston Basin. It's like the center layer of icing in a birthday cake, thin, but widely spread.

The wild card here is a second formation known as the Three Forks play.

Some geologists believe that Three Forks is entirely separate from the Bakken. If they're right, current reserve figures for the Bakken could be a fraction of what actually lies in the ground.

The Three Forks wild card is more than just icing...it elevates Legend Oil & Gas to a whole new level of profit potential.

Petroleum companies, particularly juniors, are routinely tight-lipped about their prospects.

But Legend Oil & Gas may have tipped their hands and let it be known that they're going after a lot more than just the Bakken. They want Three Forks too!

From the Legend company website we learn that:

"The underlying Three Forks shale has now been identified as a separate but equally viable target horizon, thereby adding tremendous reserve potential to an already attractive play."

Translation:

"We have the Bakken, now let's double it up with Three Forks!"

Legend management believes there are two distinct oil formations under their land that could dramatically increase the value of the reserve potential it holds.

When that breaks, LOGL stock could go really take off!

If they're right, and the evidence is piling up that they are...buying LOGL shares now could be like moving in on the Bakken ground floor in 2008!

Judging by what others already earned by investing in Bakken companies... a few thousand dollars in LOGL today could one day pay off your mortgage. A bolder move could have you set for life.

In my view, it doesn't get any better than this. LOGL locked onto a sweet spot in a massive opportunity zone that could hold vastly more oil and gas than anyone currently imagines.

The Bakken could be America's next Saudi Arabia and the way I see it, every dollar you put into a Bakken energy play today could one day be worth $10 to $30 or more!

ACTION ALERT! BUY NOW!

Don't think for a moment that this is idle speculation. Others have made killings here...

What follows are charts taken from eleven different companies in the Bakken whose stocks averaged 1,371% gains in the last two years. These companies range in size from small to large, but they all have one thing in common, a significant presence in the Bakken.

In all my years, I've never seen a concentration of triple and quadruple digit winners like have come out of the Bakken.

As you read these results, remember: every one of these companies holds a position in the Bakken!

Starting with just $1,000...

In March 2009, investors in a little-known company called Mangum Resources were trading shares at 25¢. Exactly two years later, their shares traded at $8.56.

For those lucky enough to have gotten in early, the value of Mangum shares soared 3,380% in just 24 months!

Even the majors have soared! Stocks in the top Bakken producers have more than doubled since 2008.

Marathon (MRO) $22.31 to $53.84

Hess (HES) $38.49 to $85.00

Chesapeake (CHK) ... $11.32 to $35.37

Continental (CLR) $13.54 to $71.47

EOG (EOG) $50.00 to $118.39

Whiting (WLL) $10.06 to $74.26

Encore (ENP) $8.75 to $24.21

Burlington, which is a subsidiary of Conoco Phillips (COP) was not included in these growth figures because it does not sell as a separate entity in the market. Data are lows to highs from late 2008 through April 2011.

...Mangum paid $32,800 profit!

A fluke? Not by a long shot. Mangum is just the first in a string of big winners from the Bakken.

The following companies (American and Canadian exchanges) also knocked it out of the park. Like the preceding example, profit calculations are made for a $1,000 initial stock buy from each stock's low to subsequent high and by subtracting the initial investment from the high valuation.

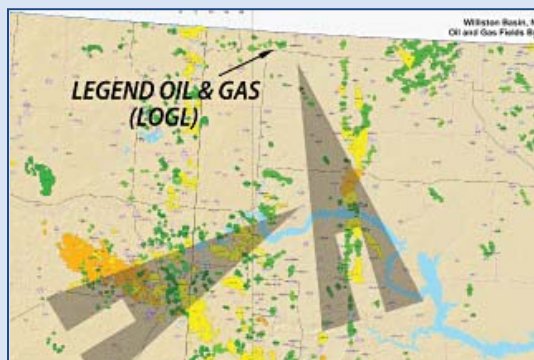

- 2 March 2009, Rosetta Resources traded $4.06. By April this year, it traded at $47.82 for a gain of 1,178%...
Rosetta paid $10,780 profit!
- 3 May 2009, Primary Petroleum traded for just 4¢. By the end of last year, they traded at 92¢ for a gain of 2,330%...
Primary paid $22,300 profit!

- 4 March 2009, Northern Oil and Gas traded at $2.22. By March 2011 it was at $32.69 for a gain of 1,472%...
Northern paid $13,720 profit!
- 5 January 2009, Abraxas Petroleum traded at 65¢. By the end of February this year, it traded at $5.87 for a gain of 903%...
Abraxas paid $8,030 profit!
- 6 May 2010, Argosy Petroleum also traded at 65¢. Less than a year later, it traded at $3.40 for a gain of 523%...
Argosy paid $4,230 profit!
- 7 January 2009, Wild Stream Exploration traded at $4.34. By April, 2011, shares had risen to $12.41 for a gain of 286%...
Wild Stream paid $1,860 profit!
- 8 August 2007, TriStar Energy traded at $3.90. This April, it closed at $16.73 for a gain of 385%...
TriStar paid $2,850 profit!
- 9 March 2009, Whiting Petroleum traded at $10.06. By April 2011, it was selling at $74.26

As I've reported above, Legend Oil & Gas staked a foothold in Divide County, North Dakota, the center of the Bakken. What I haven't yet reported is how development of the Bakken field is migrating into the Divide County region... straight for LOGL!

This natural migration of development is what gives you a ground floor shot into the next round of Bakken profit-making!

As you can see from the map to the right, Bakken oil production in North Dakota got started in the southern region of the formation. That production began in earnest approximately three years ago.

With 200,000 square miles to cover, only a fraction of the Bakken could be opened to immediate production.

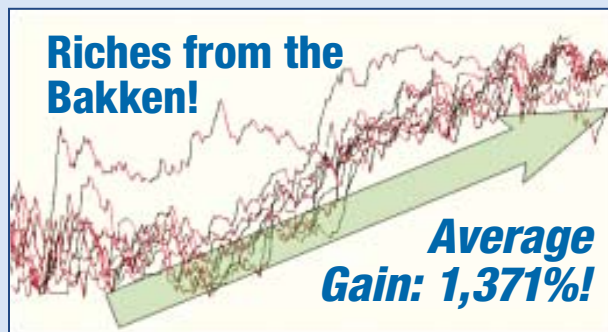

Production tends to concentrate where equipment, manpower and delivery infrastructure is abundant...so many areas of the Bakken remain up for grabs!

The majors cannot be in all places at all times (especially across such an enormous area), so fast moving juniors get to new fields first...

...and when they do, the impact on share prices can be staggering.

That's the advantage Legend Oil & Gas has in its plans for the Bakken.

Riches from the Bakken!

Historical data like this clearly shows the stunning profits LOGL could produce for its shareholders. My advice: Consider LOGL as an immediate buy and hang on for the ride!

for a gain of 738%...

Whiting paid $6,738 profit!

- 10 December 2008, Continental Resources sold for $13.54. This April, its price was up to $71.95 for a gain of 531%...

Continental paid $4,310 profit!

- 11 March 2009, Brigham Exploration sold for $1.14. This April it traded at $37.15 for a gain of 3,359%...

Brigham paid $32,590 profit!

Eleven stocks, all in the Bakken, with an AVERAGE overall gain of 1,371%

Can you see now why I am so excited to have found Legend Oil & Gas? Any LOGL buy you decide to make between $2 and $3 a share could soon multiply your shares more than ten-fold!

This profit potential is at your fingertips... just waiting for you to go online or call your broker!

It's time to beat Wall Street to the pay zone.

This is the most exciting stock I've discovered in years. It's guided by a crack management team, existing oil production...and what I interpret as a driving passion to make its shareholders rich.

I like that in a young company.

Let me recap:

Legend has a foothold in the heart of the Bakken, in a development zone that is yet to be overrun by majors...

The company's cash flow from existing Eastern Kansas oil production will keep it running during the exploration phase, bills will be paid and payroll met...

The president of the company has a sound strategy for aggressively pursuing Bakken growth opportunities, with the resources and connections to pull it off...

He's a Bakken-savvy heavyweight with a winning

The conclusion is obvious: If you drill in the Bakken, you're all but certain to hit oil. It's as close as you can get to a sure thing.

track record and an enthusiastic investor following that already sent one junior he piloted to 1,347% gains in just three months...

This is the best buy-and-hold stock I've seen in years...LOGL could explode as one of the last remaining juniors available to early investors in the Bakken!

Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL), my top pick in oil juniors and if I knew of another one like it in the Bakken... I'd be recommending it too!

Here's what you should do now:

As long as Wall Street doesn't beat you to it, LOGL is a solid buy with quick potential for 350% gains this year.

I believe you have to move fast. The Bakken is already on the Street's radar...the breakout for LOGL could come at any time

Don't find yourself on the sidelines.

Make your LOGL buy right now. Pay close attention to its longer-term potential.

Should LOGL gain traction on Wall Street like its Bakken neighbors have...your LOGL shares could one day be worth more than 30-times what you pay for them today!

Hang on tight, this could be a great ride!

With the recent Alberta, Canada acquisition Legend Oil & Gas (LOGL) may be the last opportunity you'll find for profiting this big in the Bakken.

Don't miss this one!

Discovering a young company like Legend Oil & Gas in the in the early growth stages could be the find of a lifetime!

Inside: Three big reasons why LOGL could top 500% gains for you this year!

You're holding my newly updated report on Legend Oil & Gas and it could be worth a fortune. This is an exciting junior petroleum producer I've been recommending for months. Though it already posted double-digit profits this summer, recently announced news could send its $2.00 stock soaring in a high-speed dash to $10.50... yielding 500%+ gains for today's stockholder!

Legend Oil & Gas now has property in three proven oil and gas regions with production underway in the U.S. and Canada. Yet despite recent acquisition and production news, the market hasn't even come close to hitting the stock's upside potential! Read why inside...
